

MINOR FIELD: HISTORY

DEPARTMENT: History—Politics—International Studies

TOTAL NUMBER OF CREDITS: 18

RATIONALE:

The History—Politics—International Studies Department believes that our complex society not only needs, but requires, a liberal arts graduate to have the knowledge to make informed, value-oriented connections in the fields of history, politics, international studies, prelaw and the curriculum program of the Immaculata student's chosen major field. Therefore, a minor in history provides experience for a philosophy of life that recreates the past, where truth and opinion meet, to help explain the present and anticipate the challenges of the future in a critical, analytical, creative mode of thought and action. A minor in history provides the methodology of research that is valuable to students who may not use history but will find that a sense of historical mindedness contributes to active citizenship, legal awareness, and an appreciation of the global problems facing the world in the twenty-first century.

REQUIREMENTS:

HIS 234	Revolutionary Europe
HIS 311	American Studies
HIS 335	Modern Far East
- or -
HIS 342	Foundations of Latin America
- or -
HIS 345	History and Politics of Africa
- or -
HIS 346	Middle East History and Politics
- or -
HIS 347	Russia: Politics and People
POL 201	Government in the United States
GEO 101	Introductory World Geography

One additional elective chosen from History courses.

DEPARTMENT ADVISOR: Dr. John Hill

Revised: July 2006