Status: Core faculty, Keene NH
Preferred start date: 1 August 2016

This is a re-posting, and a revised description, of a previous position announcement.

The Clinical Psychology Department at Antioch University New England (AUNE) invites applications at the Assistant or Associate Professor level to join the core faculty of our APA Accredited Doctor of Psychology (PsyD) program. This is a full-time position that reports to the Chair of the Department.

About the Position
The successful candidate will have completed an APA-accredited doctoral program in clinical or counseling psychology, and be licensed or license eligible in NH. AUNE is known for training, service, and research collaborations with community partners throughout our region, and we seek to attract colleagues who will contribute to this reputation. We particularly invite candidates who will enhance the racial, ethnic, nationality, or cultural diversity of our program community.

While area of clinical/scholarly specialty is open, any of the following areas will receive priority consideration: elderly (geropsychology) or child/family populations; neuropsychological/biological underpinnings of behavioral health; social determinants of health.

Core faculty are expected to demonstrate achievement in the areas of student engagement, scholarly activity, and service, including administrative functions within the department and university. We seek candidates with the vision, temperament, and potential to become future program leaders. Opportunities for up to one day per week of professional practice are available.

About the University, Campus, and Department
Antioch University is a singularly accredited, multi-campus, coast-to-coast institution of higher learning that provides learner-centered education to empower students with the knowledge and skills to lead meaningful lives and to advance social, economic, and environmental justice. Visit Antioch.edu for more information about our University.

Antioch University New England, one of five regional campuses, uses a distinctive graduate education pedagogy that mixes rigor with experiential learning and social engagement. Visit AntiochNE.edu for more information about our Campus.

Accredited by APA since 1986, the PsyD program follows (indeed, was instrumental in developing) the practitioner-scholar model of training as described by the National Council of Schools and Programs of Professional Psychology. We have 11 full-time core faculty and approximately two dozen students per cohort. Our students complete four years of full-time study, practica, internship, and a dissertation. The Clinical Psychology department includes three training and service centers: the Psychological Services Center, Center for Behavioral Health Innovation, and the Antioch Multicultural Center for Research and Practice. Our graduates fulfill multiple professional roles as reflective practitioners, integrating our core program values of relationship, evidence-based practice, and social justice and diversity. Visit antiochne.edu/clinical-psychology for more information about the Department.
Application instructions
For more information about the position, contact Dr. George Tremblay, chair of the search committee, at gtremblay@antioch.edu or 603-283-2190. Submit applications to HR.AUNE@Antioch.edu with “CP Faculty Search” in the subject line. Applications must include statement of interest, curriculum vita, and complete contact list for at least five references. Sample publications or other scholarly work are welcome.

Applications accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled.

AUNE is committed to providing a learning and work environment free from discrimination and harassment. Programs, activities, and employment are available with equal opportunity for all and without discrimination on the basis of race, age, color, gender, gender identity, ancestry, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, family status, or disability. The campus is a smoke-free environment.