Tenure track Position opening, Regent University

Regent University
Psychology Professor, Rank open
Department of Clinical Psychology
School of Psychology and Counseling

The Department of Psychology invites nominations and applications for the position of professor of Psychology, rank open.

Regent University (www.regent.edu), is a University affiliated with the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities and accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The university is serving more than 6,000 students in fall 2015. Founded in 1978, Regent is focused on graduate education to train future leaders with a new and growing undergraduate student body. Regent University is a 700 acre complex with Georgian architecture accented with arched windows and hand-hewn bricks. The campus is ideally located on the southern east coast of Virginia, just 16 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, with a metropolitan area of 1.6 million residents.

Within this setting, the APA-accredited Psy.D. program trains professional psychologists to practice psychotherapy and assessment skills with an emphasis on Christian integration and service to underserved populations. Included in their training is experience in the Department’s Psychological Services Center, which offers psychological services to the community and the campus. The School of Psychology and Counseling is also home to several centers of thought and action including the Institute for the Study of Sexual Identity, Couples Counseling, Diversity Studies and Forensic Psychology. The department has a strong tradition of diversity education with the monthly Cultural Diversity Lunch Series and an active Association of Black Psychologists student chapter. The Department seeks a colleague who will add disciplinary expertise to the Department.

Position Description. The position requires teaching, service, and research responsibilities as well as a terminal degree. The ideal candidate would have a background in general clinical psychology or child or pediatric psychology but other applicants are welcome. The position is expected to focus on teaching, supervision and mentoring responsibilities. The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Interview requests are expected to begin in February. Position open until filled. Position offered subsequent to funding.
Qualifications:

· Terminal degree in Psychology from an Accredited Program
· Demonstrated excellence in teaching, scholarship and service
· Licensure as a Psychologist, or license-eligible

The position starting date is Fall 2016. A complete application consists of a letter addressing the qualifications cited above; a curriculum vitae; a copy of a license to practice psychology (if licensed); and the names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of at least five professional references. A University application which includes a statement of Christian commitment can be found at http://www.regent.edu/admin/hr/job_opportunities.cfm
Subsequently, a teaching portfolio, philosophy of teaching and samples of publications will be requested before interview decisions are made. Other materials may be required.

Regent University seeks to recruit individuals who are committed to working in diverse academic and professional communities in keeping with its policy of promoting diversity throughout the institution.

Applications and nominations should be sent to:

Dr. Jennifer Ripley
Regent University
1000 Regent University Drive
Virginia Beach VA 23464
Electronic mail: jennrip@regent.edu
Telephone: 757-352-4296

More information about the institution is available through http://www.regent.edu and the department website www.regent.edu/psyd . Regent University seeks individuals who are committed to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and professional service within the University and beyond. Finalists will be required to submit to a background investigation. Individuals who need reasonable accommodations under the ADA to participate in the search process should contact the Human Resources office. Qualified prospective employees will receive consideration without discrimination because of race, color, gender, age, national origin, or disability.