The Department of Psychology in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles, CA) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position with an anticipated start date of Fall 2016. We seek applicants doing leading-edge research in clinical psychology from a lifespan perspective. Areas of research interest include but are not limited to: clinical geropsychology, clinical health psychology, health disparities, clinical neuropsychology, clinical neuroscience, developmental psychopathology, and/or evaluation of interventions. The USC clinical program emphasizes clinical science, is one of the first programs to receive PCSAS accreditation, and has one of the earliest clinical geropsychology specialty tracks in the nation.

All applicants are required to have a Ph.D. at the time of appointment. In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: http://jobs.usc.edu/postings/52346. The applicant should upload cover letter, CV, research statement, representative scholarly papers, and names of three referees. Please send any inquiries to Professor Margaret Gatz at psychsearch@dornsife.usc.edu. Screening of applicants will begin October 15, 2015.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.